TEACHING EXPERIENCE AND INTERESTS

I have taught at the college level for more than 30 years beginning in 1979. I instructed a variety of criminal justice courses at Alvin Community College (ACC) and taught in the regional law enforcement academy on the ACC campus. I have served as adjunct faculty at UH-Clear Lake and the Southwestern Legal Institute-UT-Dallas instructing courses in Research Design and Statistics. In 1990, I took a position in the Department of Psychology at the University of Houston-Central Campus. In 1996, I came to Sam Houston State University where I have instructed a variety of both graduate and undergraduate courses in criminal justice and applied psychology.

Most recently, I teach graduate courses in Criminal Justice Leadership and Management, Psychology for Criminal Justice Leadership, and Research Methods) in the MS (cohort and on-line), and University Center MS programs. In addition, I serve as the Program Coordinator for the MS in Leadership and Management program. I also have supervised a number of Special Topics courses in areas including Organizational Police Stress, Police Psychology, Leadership, and Effective Pedagogy.

I have taught the following Psychology courses at introductory and/or advanced levels, as appropriate:
