PROFESSIONAL EMPLOYMENT:

ADMINISTRATIVE POSITIONS:

9/07 to Present      Center/College Director of International Initiatives. College of Criminal Justice, Sam Houston State University. Primary responsibility includes the coordination of international activities of the College of Criminal Justice.

7/01 to 12/05      Director of International Programs. Sam Houston State University, Huntsville, TX. Duties included recruiting international students to SHSU (I traveled to Korea, Germany, and Italy for recruiting purposes in 2003) and providing advising while they were enrolled at the university. In addition, I was also responsible for the internationalization of the curriculum and campus environment. Specific activities included the negotiation and maintenance of exchange agreements with international universities, serving as a contact for international inquiries, and establishing a center for international students and activities. Furthermore, the English Language Institute, responsible for ESL instruction, was under my supervision. Currently serving as Interim Director (7/10 to present).

7/98 to 8/00

Associate Dean for Academic Administration. College of Criminal Justice. Sam Houston State University, Huntsville, TX. Served as de facto chair of criminal justice and as Acting Dean in the absence of the Dean. Duties included supervision of faculty members, annual evaluations and faculty development. In addition, I was responsible for the scheduling and monitoring of recruiting, tenurings, and promotions of faculty members. I was the administrator ultimately responsible for curriculum planning and scheduling. The Associate Dean is also the keeper of university and college policies and guidelines and as such is responsible for compliance with them. Finally, I handled all cases of grievances involving a student or faculty member.

1/97 to 7/98

Assistant Dean for Graduate Programs. College of Criminal Justice. Sam Houston State University, Huntsville, TX. Administered the office of Graduate Studies. Duties included the advising of approximately 100 graduate students and supervision of a professional advisor. In addition, I was responsible for the recruitment of new graduate students, the administration of comprehensive examinations, and certification of graduating Master's and Ph.D. students. I was also involved in the awarding and administration of teaching and research assistantships and served as a liaison between graduate students and faculty members in disputes and appeals. Finally, I was one of three people responsible for scheduling and class assignments for faculty.

8/94 to 1/97

Assistant Dean for Undergraduate Studies. College of Criminal Justice. Sam Houston State University, Huntsville, TX. Administered the Office of Undergraduate Studies. Duties involved supervision of advisors, both professional and graduate student advisors. The office served approximately 1,200 majors who obtained all their advising there. In addition, I handled academic probation, suspensions, and reinstatements. I was also involved in scheduling and curriculum assessment. We administered programs for students such as "Tuesdays at Two," a series of career planning responsible for the certification of graduating seniors.

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE:

- 1996-1998 I organized and conducted a series of seminars that deal with environmental crime. Seminars were attended by convicted environmental criminals, community leaders interested in environmental crime, and small business owners in need of information so as not to become criminals.

- 1996-1998 Working with two colleagues, we conducted a secondary analysis of data collected by the Environmental Protection Agency on environmental crime. We studied the nature and extent of criminal prosecutions of environmental offenses.
- 1994-1995 I conducted a survey of all 1988, 1990 and 1992 recipients of baccalaureate degrees in criminal justice from Sam Houston State University. The study focused on graduates' assessment of their experiences at the university, their employment histories, and their contacts with SHSU since graduation.
- 1993-1994 I was involved in a study that focused on the outcomes of correctional education on post release recidivism, education, and employment, and prerelease disciplinary problems. The research was a cooperative effort of the Criminal Justice Center of Sam Houston State University and the Windham School System of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice--Institutional Division.
- 1992-1994 Susan Weeks and I conducted interviews in Japanese prisons aimed at understanding the differences in prison experiences between men and women, and street and white-collar criminals. We surveyed 175 inmates (100 women and 75 men) in two prisons and were able to interview in-depth 24 of these individuals.
- 1991-1992 Working with a colleague at Sam Houston State University, we initiated a research project focusing on female victimization of white-collar crime. In an initial stage, we studied all forms of female victimization of white-collar crime (i.e., females as consumers, employees, and members of the general public).
- 1990-1993 I conducted a research project on using admissions to emergency rooms as an alternative measure of drug abuse in the U.S. Working with a research assistant, I obtained relevant information for the City of Houston and compared it to official statistics and self-report data on drug abuse independent from self-reports and official statistics.
- 1988-1990 I conducted a follow-up on my dissertation project. With the help of a grant from the University of Idaho, I was able to travel to several cities in the U.S. and in Switzerland for the purpose of conducting additional face-to-face interviews with individuals involved in the organization I had studied. Interviews were conducted with a wide range of people: academicians, social activists, business representatives, and governmental officials.
- 1986-1988 Dissertation Project. I studied a social movement organization that started out by focusing on the marketing of infant formula in less developed countries, but shifted its attention subsequently to the involvement of multinational corporations in the production of nuclear weapons. The research design was that of a case study. I interviewed activists, volunteers, business representatives, and government officials. I corresponded with the Internal Revenue Service (income information of non-profit organizations is in the public domain under the Freedom of Information Act) and monitored media coverage of the organization I studied, the Infant Formula Action Coalition (INFACT). In addition, I engaged in some participant observation when I attended street actions of local chapters.
