RESEARCH AND PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

Criminal Research Information Management Evaluation System (CRIMES). Project Director. CRIMES is funded by lease agreements with subscribing law enforcement agencies. CRIMES is designed to either supplement or replace systems currently used by most police departments. The current system integrates modules related to incidents (offense reports), computer assisted dispatch, automated UCR reporting, arrests, bookings, local warrants, property room management, traffic activity, crime analysis, and operational analysis. National Institute of Justice funding supported the integration of emergent technology components and demonstration of the system as an interoperability standard (two grants, one at $200,000 and the second at $100,000, 2000-2002). The Bureau of Justice Assistance supported additional development in 2005-2006 through the Houston METRO Police Department, $300,000. Annual operating budget exceeds $500,000. 1995 - present

Texas Major City Research Initiative. Project Director. Funded by the Bill Blackwood Law Enforcement Management Institute of Texas (LEMITE), a legislatively funded endeavor of Sam Houston State University, the Initiative focuses upon the state's "Big Six" police agencies – Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, and San Antonio. The research effort entails comparative data analysis and evaluation of specific crime reduction interventions among the six participating departments. 2005 – present.

Border Intelligence Information Systems Development, Research Associate. Contract with the National Institute of Justice, Office of Science and Technology to develop approaches and systems for threat to national security intelligence sharing among Texas police agencies on the Mexican border. Multiple institutions of the Texas State University System involved. Richard Ward, Project Director. $1,000,000. 2003-2004.

Cultural Diversity Training Evaluation, Project Director. Contract with the Houston Texas Police Department to assess multi-year training program for both officers and citizens. Funded by the Bureau of Justice Assistance. $50,000. 2003-2005.

Law Enforcement Technology and Strategy Institute, Project Director. Contract with the National Institute of Justice working in partnership with Eastern Kentucky University, to develop models to optimize the use of emergent technology to improve law enforcement effectiveness. Includes several components: development of research bulletins, construction of a searchable national data base of successful technology integration, workshops and symposia. $250,000. 2000-2003.

School Resource Officer Curriculum Development, Project Director. Contract with Center for School Safety, Eastern Kentucky University, $28,000. 1999-2000.

Evaluation of the PRISM Firearms Simulation Program, Project Director. Funded by National Institute of Justice through subcontract with Eastern Kentucky University, $25,000. Jan.-Dec. 2000.

Texas Regional Community Policing Institute, Associate Project Director. The TRCPI is one of several institutes funded by the Office of Community Oriented Policing Services, Dept. of Justice. It sponsors an array of training and technical assistance programs. The development of technology and crime-specific approaches to strategy is one of the central endeavors. $1 million annually, 1997-2000.

Advanced Technology Against Crime, Project Director. Contract with the National Institute of Justice, Office of Science and Technology to develop distance learning modules addressing the application of technology to policing. The endeavor involves identification of emergent technologies of greatest value to law enforcement, and subsequent development of distance learning packages addressing the employment of these technologies by police agencies. The effort involves the Consortium for the Future, a cooperative engagement of six organizations: Sam Houston State University, Eastern Kentucky University, Ohio State University, Policy Development Institute, Inc., University of Virginia, and Weber State University. Sam Houston State University was the lead institution. $550,000, 1998-2001.

Texas Law Enforcement Management Institute, Project Director. Contract with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education to deliver instruction for a ten week police administration course, conduct ten to twelve Executive Issues Seminars annually, and conduct several research projects, including a citizen/police contact survey, administrative practices survey, and development of program evaluation packages. Contracts exceeded $500,000 annually, program ultimately transferred to Sam Houston State University, 1989-1993.

Career Paths in Law Enforcement, Project Director. Series of contracts with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education to develop advanced certification standards for specialized police roles, 1990-1993.

Jail Officer Training Validation Assessment, Research Associate. Contract with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education to develop a content valid curriculum and licensing examination for all jail officers in Texas, funded by the National Institute of Corrections, 1982-1985.

Police Psychological Services Study, Project Director. University research grant to study the newly emerging role of psychological services units in police departments, 1984-1985.

Police Basic Training Validation Assessment, Research Associate. Contract with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education to develop a content valid curriculum and licensing examination relevant to required basic training in Texas, 1980-1983.

Selective Traffic Enforcement Evaluation, Project Director. Contract with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to develop administrative guidelines for selective enforcement programs based upon assessment of eight projects in Texas, 1981-1982.

Criminal Justice Human Resource Information System Project, Research Associate. Program funded by Law Enforcement Assistance Administration involving development of a data base accessible by remote computer terminal relevant to manpower allocation decisions, 1978-1981.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY RESEARCH AND PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT (1973-1977)

Criminal Justice Curriculum Institute, Project Director, program funded by the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Project involving development of a faculty institute for community college educators to formulate curriculum guidelines for criminal justice programming at the community college level, 1975-1976.

Criminal Justice Teaching Fellowship Program, Project Director, funding by Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Project involving development of a law enforcement program at Wayne County Community College in Detroit, Michigan, through utilization of M.S.U. graduate teaching fellows, 1974-1975.

Criminal Justice Graduate Education Development Program, Assistant Project Director, funded by Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. Project involving strengthening of graduate education at Michigan State University through development of research programs and consultative relationships with criminal justice agencies, 1974.

Graduate Research Fellow, National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. Dissertation topic: "Police Recruit Educational Background Analysis". Project involving ascertainment of educational levels of police recruits from national sample, and determination of certain background characteristics and factors affecting their employment in a particular agency, 1973.
