Scott Menard

Visiting Assistant Professor of Sociology, Whitman College, Walla Walla, Washington, 1981-1982.

Areas of specialization

Statistics (Longitudinal Research, Logistic Regression Analysis, Multilevel Analysis)
Research Methods (Survey Research, Evaluation Research)
Criminology and Juvenile Delinquency (Victimization, Substance Use, Theory Testing)
Demography/Population Studies

Teaching Areas 1981-present

Statistics and Research Methods: Introductory, Intermediate, and Advanced Statistics; Introduction to Social Research; Research Methods (undergraduate and graduate)

Criminology and Criminal Justice: Criminology; Juvenile Delinquency (undergraduate and graduate); Drugs Crime, and Criminal Justice; Juvenile Gangs; Deviance; Introduction to Criminal Justice; Police and Society; Corrections (undergraduate)

Demography: Demography; Population and Society; Population Studies: Fertility and Mortality; Population Studies: Migration and Distribution (undergraduate and graduate)

Other courses taught: Introductory Sociology; Racial and Minority Groups; Social Change; Social Problems; Sociology of Education; Urban Sociology (all undergraduate)

Courses Taught at Sam Houston State University

CJ 262/CRIJ 2362	Criminology
