The program is for Wardens, Deputy and Assistant Wardens, and Jail Superintendents. We encourage agencies to send a team of two. Participants will be contacted by our office and provided additional information about the program. Wardens have continually given very positive feedback to the University saying, “This program is truly one of the best seminars we have ever attended.” This program is very popular and will fill up fast.

Only the first 30 registrations will be accepted. So please register early!

“Having the participants present 'what works' information from their home departments ensures that new and creative ideas are shared.” - Karen Rohling, Larned Correctional Mental Health Facility, Kansas

“The academic setting made a perfect learning environment, something we don't always have in the prison setting. The tours of the facilities were beneficial in that we were able to look at the physical plant differences and similarities to the institutions in our own states as well as the differences and similarities of our policies and procedures.” - W. J. Sullivan, Warden, California Correctional Institution
In 1994, the Correctional Management Institute of Texas (CMIT) was created with the vision of developing and delivering leadership and management development training programs to personnel in adult and juvenile corrections as well as institutional corrections agencies.

In 1994, CMIT launched the Wardens Peer Interaction Program, one of the core programs offered by the Institute. It has since become a popular and invaluable tool in the Warden’s toolkit. The program is a unique opportunity for Wardens, Deputy and Assistant Wardens, and Jail Superintendents from local, state, federal, private, and military agencies to engage each other through presentations and discussions on the most challenging issues and promising practices in corrections today.

CMIT is host to the National Jail Leadership Command Academy and the Senior Level Corrections Leadership Development Program to complement its Mid-Management Program and other correctional leadership offerings.

The North American Association of Wardens and Superintendents (NAAWS) has served correctional leadership since the 1940s. Originally a social network for Wardens, NAAWS has developed into a national association of more than 1200 Wardens, Superintendents, and Deputy Wardens from local, state, and federal jurisdictions. Private prison leaders are a significant part of the NAAWS membership.

In 1979, NAAWS began to recognize outstanding leadership through its Warden of the Year program, a tradition that has continued since then. In the early 1990s, NAAWS began to recognize acts of bravery in the line of duty with the Medal of Valor.

In an exciting new collaboration, CMIT and NAAWS are teaming up to bring the very popular Wardens Peer Interaction Training Program to a new level.

Richard Stalder joined the Louisiana Dept. of Corrections in 1971 and worked his way up the ranks from correctional officer to Secretary of the second-largest state agency in Louisiana. He is past President of ACA.

Pat Caruso served the Michigan Dept. of Corrections for 23 years, including 9 years as warden and 2 years as regional prison administrator. In July 2003, she was appointed Director by the Governor and retired on January 1, 2011.

Doug Dretke served for 26 years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, capping his career as Director of the Correctional Institutions Division of TDCJ. He is currently Executive Director of CMIT.

“Powerful would be the word I would use to describe the training. It provided a barometer of where we are as a state and where we can go.”
- Sheryl Lockwood, Assistant Deputy Director, Iowa Department of Corrections
